

WHAT CAN BEING AN EDUCATION PARTNER DO FOR YOU?

The Production Guild of Great Britain is the UK's leading membership organisation for film and TV drama production professionals. Our 1,000 members work in the production office, accounts, assistant directing, location management, post production and VFX.

We are proud to have over 100 partner companies who supply specialised services to the production industry, including all the major studios, camera, lighting and specialist equipment, accounting and finance services, post production and VFX houses, location services and production companies.

You can find a full list of benefits of being a Education Partner on the pages below.

“Being an educational partner of the Production Guild has been such a boost to students on the Television Production management degree at Edge Hill University. From organising networking events with production companies, getting the very best of the production world to meet with our students, to providing dynamic webinars, they have enriched so many areas of our degree. The support they provide to our cohort after their studies is also incredibly valuable and we have a number of success stories as a direct result of connections made by the Production Guild. They also offer valuable support and insight to lecturers, making sure we are keeping our skills and knowledge as up to date as possible.”

Perelandra Beedles, Programme Leader and Senior Lecturer BA (Hons) Television Production Management, Employability and Outreach Coordinator, Edge Hill University.

The Film and Television programme is a Creative Skillset accredited course that provides an environment in which students can grow into confident television and film practitioners.

State-of-the-art high-definition tapeless television studio, industry standard shooting and lighting equipment, Avid production suites and an advanced dubbing suite.

Industry sponsors include: BBC, ITV, Avid, Warner Bros, BFI, Elstree Studios to name but a few.

Film & Television Successes

Proud to be winners of the prestigious Royal Television Society London Student Awards for Best Drama 2015 and Best Sound Craft Award 2016, as well as being nominated for Best Documentary 2014, 2015 and Best Entertainment Programme 2016.

The Elstree Project is a unique oral history archive charting 100 years of Elstree studios. Since the project began in 2010, over 40 students have been crew members on interview shoots with veterans from the film and television industry at the studios of Elstree and Borehamwood. Some of the stories our students have heard first-hand include what it was like to operate the film camera for Star Wars, design props for Stanley Kubrick and floor manage The Muppet Show, all whilst getting the opportunity to further their practical filmmaking skills. Trips to the studios are a regular part of the project and the work forms part of a vitally important archive.

We are proud to be in partnership with the Edinburgh International Television Festival talent network scheme. This gives some of our final year students access to places on this highly acclaimed new talent programme - helping fast track our graduates in to employment, as they receive mentorship and internships from leading companies and broadcasters such as BBC, Endemol, ITV and Sky.
